

Hibernian Law Journal

www.hibernianlawjournal.com

The Hibernian Law Journal is one of the most unique Irish legal publications of recent years.

The Hibernian Law Journal aims to promote an increased awareness of the law and its related disciplines among practising and academic lawyers, while also encouraging increased scholarship by members of the legal community in Ireland.

In recognition of the wealth of currently unpublished material on the law and its related disciplines in the jurisdiction, the Hibernian Law Journal seeks to highlight specifically, although not exclusively, the writings of trainee and newly qualified lawyers, junior academics and students.

The Hibernian Law Journal is published annually. To provide for a specialist forum for detailed and considered argument and discussion, each issue will contain approximately five articles of a substantial length. In addition there will be up to four short notes or commentaries that address discreet topics.
